HABEAS CORPUS WRIT GRANTED HARRY THAW

By Judge Edgar Aldrich of the United States District Court at Concord.

BUT STILL IN CUSTODY

Decision in His Favor May Help Him in United States Supreme Court.

CONCORD, N. H., April 14.—Harry Thaw's writ of habeas corpus was granted by Judge Edgar Aldrich of the United States district court today. The court said, however, that no order would be issued for the prisoner's discharge from custody until arrangements had been made to take the case to the United States supreme court of appeals.

Thaw's petition for admission to bail, the court left undetermined, taking the ground that it would be more appropriate for this to be passed upon by the supreme court. The result of the decision is that Thaw's guardianship and condition will be unchanged for the present, but that his petition for a writ of habeas corpus will go to the highest court in the land with a decision of the lower court in his favor.

The decision filed with the clerk of the court here made more than 10,000 words and discusses exhaustively the various phases of the case presented in the United States court of appeals.

"My conclusion is that constitutional right of extradition for crime does not apply to a case of this situation as this where the right of control by the demanding state resides in a degree of custody based on insanity and where its papers on their face negative the idea of personal criminal responsibility. It is further thought that it would involve forced reasoning to make a flight of the character of the one in question, the kind of a flight contemplated by the constitution as a basis for extradition."

"It results that an order will be made sustaining the writ and the extradition process under which he was held at the time his petition for habeas corpus was brought upon constitutional grounds."

LUMBER TRADE

Enjoying Healthy Increase in South but Conditions Are Not Same in North.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 14.—Reviewing market conditions in the South for the first ten days of April The Tradesmen in its current issue, announces that the lumber trade is especially conspicuous for gradual and healthy increase in business. The more noticeable in portions of the country where spring weather has started in earnest and construction work has gotten an early start.

In the northern sections of the southern states where the weather has not settled there is not the same amount of encouragement to be seen. Hardwood men are finding demand for very good volume and prices are being firmly maintained. Quartered white oak is moving steadily and there is an increase in activity with cottonwood and poplar. Yellow pine continues spotty and is governed by local conditions. It is particularly gratifying that railroads are beginning to inquire freely, but the export trade has not yet resumed the desired tone. South American trade is in rather poor shape.

CENTENNIAL

History of West Virginia Can Be Obtained for Only Thirty-Five Cents.

The West Virginia Centennial Commission has issued the Centennial History of West Virginia and the work is now being distributed by the secretary of state. The work is exceedingly valuable and it brings the recorded history of the state down to the moment.

In the preparation of this volume an earnest effort was made to cover every phase of our state's history from the days of the pioneers to the present time. This has been admirably accomplished by Prof. Cattagan in the first 300 pages. The remainder of the work, occupying the last 290 pages is made up of over thirty special articles on the resources and development of the state by persons specially qualified to treat the subject assigned them. The volume is replete with maps, illustrations and drawings and has been pronounced by many competent critics, one of the most valuable books ever published by the state.

The secretary of state, Charleston, W. Va., will send any citizen of the state one copy of the Semi-Centennial History of West Virginia on receipt of thirty-five cents. This is merely an incidental expense charge, the book being worth six times that amount if sold at its true value.

Tobacco dealers in town say the demand for these blankets is very great as the ladies have found so many uses for them. They predict that their limited supply of these extra large novelties will soon be exhausted, and urge smokers to take advantage of this free offer right away.

The sale of Sovereign cigarettes is reported to be steadily on the increase. Their mildness, mellowness and flavor have established a new standard of quality that is giving the greatest satisfaction to smokers everywhere.

NUPTIAL SERVICE IS VERY BRILLIANT

McKinley - Bennett Wedding First After-Easter Society Affair in Washington.

(By Charles Brooks Smith.) WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14.—The high nuptial service which today united in marriage Miss Agra Bennett, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Louis Bennett, of Weston, and Mr. Johnson Camden McKinley, of Wheeling, was the first, and to West Virginians, the most interesting event of Easter society events in Washington. The ceremony was celebrated at St. John's church in Lafayette Square, one of the oldest churches in the city and often called The Church of State. There was a particular fitness in this, as an ancestor of Miss Bennett was the first White House bride.

Seldom has St. John's church witnessed a lovelier wedding. An hour before noon the doors of the church were thrown open and during the intervening time before the arrival of the bride party there was an eager flutter of expectancy among the assembled guests, as Miss Bennett during her stay in Washington, has made many warm and interested friends.

WILSON HESITATES IN SALUTE DEMAND

Decides Not to Further Back Rear Admiral Fletcher until Probe is Made.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—After conferences today between President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and John Lind it was decided that before the Washington government goes further in backing up Rear Admiral Mayo's demand for a salute to the American flag at Tampico as an apology for the recent arrest of marines there, a further investigation will be made into the facts surrounding the incident. All officials were silent on the situation, admittedly a tense one. They let it be known, however, that the delay did not indicate a disposition to change President Wilson's attitude but to afford opportunity to investigate fully Huerta's statement of the affair and Admiral Mayo's representations to the federal commander.

Officials said the administration wished to be fully and completely informed before proceeding further. Officials pointed out that the difficulty of communication between Washington and Tampico might put off a final determination probably two or three days.

SEVEN PERISH IN BIG BLAZE

Of Needlework to Be Displayed Here by Man Who Has Circled Globe Twice.

(By W. Lee.) W. Lee, of Broad Oaks, has finished his second trip around the world, which has taken him nine years, from country to country, taking the old mail box on the east end of the Clarksburg depot for the starting point, and traveling on and on in the direction of the rising sun, until he again landed on the coast of sunny California on the twelfth day of February, 1914. Crossing the continent of our old U. S. A. one might wonder why I walked straight to the old mail box laying my hand on it because it was my starting point, a small thing indeed, but a little spot that I wondered if I ever would see again.

Through the kindness of the Parsons-Souders Company I will place in its window Friday and Saturday for the little ones, old and young, rich and poor, some of the greatest needlework in the world. The people that made some of this work are not trying to live a whole life in one day, one piece taking two girls three years to complete. I will say that I think that I have the finest collection of things that will interest the people than any other person in West Virginia, some things taken from the awful fires in China during the great wars of that country.

I want to put the entire collection of my travels on display during the fair, if the good people of Clarksburg will give me the chance.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) BOSTON, April 14.—Seven lives were lost in a fire which wrecked the Melvin, a five story brick apartment house at Commonwealth and Long avenues in the Alston district, early today. Power and their two year old baby boy; Mrs. Alice Shackelford, Mrs. Edith Bemis, a young woman about seventeen years old, probably Mrs. Power's maid; and an unidentified woman.

Many others among the 125 persons living in the house had narrow escapes and several were painfully burned. The loss was $60,000.
